

*Department of Mathematics,
University of California San Diego*

Food for Thought

Arseniy Kryazhev

UCSD

Chess

Abstract:

In this talk, various aspects of the game of chess will be explored. Like true philosophers, we will make random observations, pose rhetorical questions and draw strange parallels, all without claim to the truth while touching on various topics from the nature of randomness to ways to maximize cognitive performance. Familiarity with the game is not required but will be helpful.

February 14, 2025

2:00 PM

APM 7321
