- Because I had the latest discussion section with him, I was basically the only one showing up, so he was able to help me a lot.

- He definitely helped explain the material by using examples both from the homework and from lecture. However, he was often slightly boring and sometimes seemed a little disconnected from the class - I never got the feeling that he enjoyed being there or wanted to lead discussion. Despite that, he was still effective at explaining material to students and answering questions candidly.

- I think it would be helpful to go over practice exams or new problems during discussion, not just the homework.

- Would like to see him do unique problems instead of homework problems because I have already done those
